

Well we are back and this tour will be a special tour as it will be 10 years since the first WMFB team hit the shores of Phuket and created our very own lunch box legend. This time we are trying something different – Kata Sevens. Bugger... we have to field and bat for an extra over... we struggle with 5 overs as it is.. It might turn out to be just too long between drinks of the Jungle Juice.

Again our sponsors have shown great support to the cause and dipped deep into their pockets to ensure the legend of the WMFB lives on.

We say thanks to: Gold Security Group, Angus O'Tools, AE³S (Asia Eco-Energy Enterprise Solutions), M&M Walter Consulting, Successful Projects, Fire Rescue Safety Australia, MYR Consulting, Vasey EHS Consulting, Aluframe, Handling Systems Australia and Castlerock Investments.

Players for 2015's Kata Sevens and 10th Anniversary WMFB Tour are:

Captain Circket (Mark Stirling)

CC is back again no more to say..Older wiser and should know better by now. Sitting on the sideline is probably the best position for CC to be in, watching with beer in hand.

Ginger Rash (Ian Farrar)

Yep he's back too. Hopefully he doesn't get lost on a diving expedition before the competition starts. The infamous Fines Capt is much needed to keep law and order during the fines sessions. The bugger doesn't miss a thing.. (except on the field).

Snatch (Alan Jackson)

Snatch is back again to show us how to rock n roll. Bottled water in one hand tobasco sauce in the other. Knocking them back like there is no tomorrow. Is there nothing this Wild Man can't do.. Bring it on says Snatch.

Sir Les (Peter Weir)

Padding up for the 4th time for the Wild Men and set to again take the Phuket night life on and conquer it yet again. Steady by day, flash by night. With his knack of dealing with the locals, impressing them with his cultural savvy and his ability to party long into the night, Sir Les is fast becoming a self-made legend.

Tuk Tuk (Ross Broun)

After failing to get to Phuket last year the Tuk Tuk is back in 2015 for another WMFB tour and ready to send down those spinning grenades and hopefully score a few as well. Welcome back Tuk2 I am sure the Fines Capt will bring you up to speed from last year with fines.

Dora The Explora (David Reynolds)

Finally after years in the wilderness one of the original Wild Men From Borneo is back to make an appearance. Dora was the CC for the very first tour of the official WMFB. Welcome back DTE we look forward to you discovering new and unusual places for us to visit to drink beer.

Cutter (Luke Richards)

The Cutter is back after many years of self-exile and a shit load of nagging from CC to get his arse into gear and get himself sorted. We look forward to the woosh of the willow when he is bowling and the crack of the stumps when batting, or have I got that round the wrong way Cutter. Good to have the man back for the anniversary and back in the WMFB team.

Scarface (Jeff Butler)

Scarface is back again for a second run in Phuket after slipping on the mat last year when batting pulling a leg muscle (which muscle did you pull???) The big man is back to showcase his talents, both on and off the field and have a great time. Where Scarface is from three is most definitely a crowd but in Phuket that will be just getting the party started.

Icepack (David Dickson)

The legendary Icepack is returning for another go at Phuket as well as the cricket. Great fun on and off the field with an acquired taste for the mighty Jungle Juice. The big hearted bloke is usually found behind the stumps but in sevens and sixes he becomes a devastating bowler often finding the middle of the bat with the occasional surprise ball. Watch this space to find out what that is as we are still waiting several years later...

Legendary Support

Beaver (John), Butthead (Maurice) and Miami Vice (Brendan)

The lads from Angus O'Tools are again back to support the WMFB. We look forward to their company and knocking back a few pints of beer and cider. I hear they have ordered in the New Zealand cider on the market called Cumin hot on the tail of last years Dicken's. Last year there was a cameo appearance of Butthead on the field (actually sprawled out on the field). With the way things are going that may be required again this year. We are also hoping that Miami Vice makes an appearance this year.

Soup Dragon (Paul Piper)

A welcome back for the Soup Dragon who again has travelled a long way with his mate Ewok to support and party with the WMFB and partake in the downing of the mighty jungle juice. The quiet party animal keeps things moving along at a steady pace whilst trying to maintain some decorum (which I must say is a hard thing to do around the WMFB) and keep an eye on his drinking buddy and stop him getting out of hand..

Ewok (Jim Jeffries)

Great to see our mate Ewok back again. The great Ewok managed to get roped into playing a game to cover the loss of Capt Cricket last year. There is not much this guy can't do. Dances on tables, smokes artificial cigarettes, plays for the WMFB, party's till the sun comes up. What more need I say...

Maddog (Nick Ashbrook)

Unable to play in the Sevens but coming along for a few days to assist with the WMFB warm up sessions in preparation for the cricket. Unfortunately Maddog will not get to bowl a maiden over as he will be heading off prior to the start of the cricket.

Budgie (Burt Baetsen)

Also making an appearance prior to the Sevens event as support for the WMFB 10th Anniversary year and get the team focused on the right things and ensure the team are in peak condition. Unfortunately will have to retire before start of play and head back down under.

Drambuie (Nigel Van Cuylenburg)

The legend is making a return to the WMFB stomping ground to catch up with the team before the competition. Unfortunately he too will not get the chance to make an appearance on the field of play as he will also have to head off back to Burma. I am sure he will make sure the WMFB team have their party rhythm sorted prior to leaving.
